

AT FRANKLIN & NORMAN,
121 THAMES STREET.

FRIDAY MORNING, JUNE 1, 1851.

There is a W. D. D. late Governor of New York, who has been elected to the Presidency of the United States.

At the late election, Mr. Starr, the candidate for Governor, but his term, small effort caused him to be re-elected to the State Prison. An American in opposition there, for one year, he was elected, through the agency of the General Assembly of the State.

A Portrait of Hamilton.—But Hamilton's portrait was for different. He was not only the guide, but the champion of the party. Rejecting the mysterious habiliments of the antique, he stood before the audience in person, bearing over the board and wearing the pieces unmaned. What was to be done, he did himself; neither labor, profit, nor expense he spared. His mighty arm was ever in the thick of the fight. Even when a boy of sixteen, his cry against British tyranny found clear and shrill above the noisy voice of the revolution. When scarcely twenty at the head of Washington's staff, the crimson of his sash was deepened with the first blood of Brandywine, Germantown, and Monmouth. He led the advanced guard at Yorktown, in that decisive charge which on October 19th, 1781, drove in the first of the enemy's outposts. Nor did the field of battle alone know him. Valley Forge found him stern and comprehensive intellect, and from that frozen camp, under Washington's great command, did he issue those fierce appeals which incensed more than the fire of the most powerful Congress. The same daring temper, the same splendid abilities, the same absorbing individuality followed him in the Constitutional Convention, and into the assembly, popular and representative, in New York, was tried the fate of the instrument which that Convention perfected. In Washington's Cabinet, which he entered when he was hardly thirty-two, he was not only the enthroned chief, but the undisputed exponent of the party which then began to confine to itself the name of Federalist. An incomparable facility of style and precision of language, the logarithms of politics, instead of mere tedious processes which others employed, and by his immense intellectual vitality, his readiness to expose himself at any point and to every danger, and his untiring gallantry, he not only carried out the Federalist's policy, but he became the embodiment of it. Mr. Jefferson spoke only through his friends. Mr. Hamilton's friends spoke only through him. The influence of the latter was subtle, equal, and gentle, operating rather through the force of a previously given rule than of an immediate precept; the influence of the latter was direct and personal, exercised in the particular case. The one committed to his friends the duty by which the ship was to be guided, and then withdrew from their company; the other took the helm himself, clearing the way by his presence, and controlling them by his commands.—Warton's Trials of the Federal States.

3 days later from Europe.

The steamship Asia arrived at New York Wednesday morning, having left Liverpool on the 24th ult. Her news is three days later; but it is of no particular interest.

There has been a decline in cotton, and a dull market in breadstuffs.

The President of the French Republic attended a review on the 23d ult, in the Champ de Mars. Everything passed off quietly. The President, who was accompanied by General Narvaiz, was received with loud shouts of—Vive Napoleon!

We learn from Paris that some disturbance took place at Belle Isle, on the 19th ult, amongst the political prisoners, who grossly insulted, and incited with acts of violence, the Inspector of Prisons. Barbes and Blanqui were amongst the rioters.

Late advices from Madrid state that the elections had terminated, and the result was, in almost every instance, favorable to the government.

Accounts have been received from Lisbon on the 12th ult. Saldaña had chartered two steamers to convey him and his troops to Lisbon. The Queen is said to be disposed to meet Saldaña's views with respect to the formation of a ministry.

There has been a most dangerous flood at Vienna; with one exception; all the bridges have been carried away.

The King of Prussia reached Warsaw on the 18th of May. The Emperor and Empress advanced to meet him as far as Skierniewice, where the royal and imperial party dined; they then journeyed on together to Warsaw.

Advices from Brussels to the 23d state that no ministry had then been formed.

Hansberg accounts confirm the late statements of a joint remonstrance having been sent to the Danish government by Austria and Prussia, on the subject of the Federal Commissioners.

Advices from Brussels to the 20th ult, state that a new Ministry had not been formed at that date.

Marshal Radetzky has been summoned from Milan to Vienna, for the purpose, it was believed, of accompanying the Emperor of Austria to Warsaw.

A modification of the Spanish Cabinet, according to accounts of the 15th ult, was again talked of.

M. St. Clair Clarke's last story is repeated as an admirable illustration of the probable result of secession movements. It runs as follows: "Mama, I ponting, and returns." "My child, won't you eat your breakfast?" "No I won't," [exit boy, but returns hungry, and finds the breakfast is about to be removed.] "Mama, why don't you whip me, and make me eat my breakfast?"

A Good Joke on a Widower.—A correspondent at Holly Springs, Mississippi, tells the following, and vouches for its truth. It is the best joke we have heard of lately. It appears that a widower in that town, of a somewhat gallant disposition, had been accustomed to visit the residence of the widow M., whether to see the amiable widow herself, or her lively daughters, or informants did not know. One evening, he found the family party hard at work on some garments of cloth. The girls were sewing, and the widow was pressing the seams. The widower "rang up his hat," as usual, and took his seat by the fire; just at that moment it happened that the widow had done with the pressing-iron, (vulgo, tailor's goose). She set it down on the hearth, and called to her negro man in a loud voice—"Jake! Jake! come and take out this goose!"

The widower started up with astonishment, not knowing what to make of this abrupt order. "Jake! do you hear me?" again exclaimed the widow. "I beg your pardon, Mrs. M.—" said the widower, with visible agitation, "but pray don't call Jake. If you wish me to leave your house, I will go at once, and without the interference of the servants." The ladies roared with laughter, and it took some moments to explain to the chagrined widower his mistake. He has not been known to visit the widow M.—since that memorable evening.

Jenny Lind Not Going Home.—We give place to the following note from Mr. Max Hirschberg, the private secretary and friend of Mademoiselle Jenny Lind, and are truly happy to learn that there may be, after all, another chance yet of hearing the nightingale.

To the Editors of the Express: Gentlemen—"The remarks appended to the end of which Mr. Barnum publishes this morning, relative to the termination of his contract with Miss Jenny Lind are calculated in some degree to mislead the public with regard to her future intentions. Miss Lind has never authorized the statement that these concerts were to be her last in America; the only publication she has consented to is that of the close of her engagement with Mr. Barnum, after one hundred nights. The fatigue and exertion incident to such long and continuous effort in the necessary far her to enjoy for some time repose and relaxation.

After that, she may, if her strength permits, make a short tour in Western New York and Canada, in order not to disappoint those who, from expecting to hear her at home, have refrained from visiting the Atlantic cities.

I am, gentlemen, yours respectfully,
Max Hirschberg, Sec'y to Miss Lind.

The Mocking Bird.—During the time of incubation, neither cat, dog, animal nor man can approach the nest without being attacked. The cats, in particular, are persecuted whenever they make their appearance, until obliged to retreat. But his whole vengeance is more particularly directed against that mortal enemy of his eggs and young, the black snake. Whenever the insidious approaches of the reptile are discovered, the male darts upon it with the rapidity of an arrow, dexterously eluding its bite, and striking it violently on the head, where it is very vulnerable. The snake becomes sensible of its danger, and seeks to escape, but the intrepid defender of its young redoubles its exertions, and, unless his antagonist be of great magnitude, often succeeds in destroying him. All his pretended powers of fascination avail him nothing against this noble bird. As the snake's strength begins to flag the mocking-bird seizes it, and lifts it up partly from the ground bending it with its wings; and returns to the nest of his young, mounts the summit of the bush, and pours forth a torrent of song in token of victory.

Model Dumb.—The Stockton (California) Times, recommends to all his friends the following form of a dunning letter. It was sent by a San Francisco curiosity in its way.
San Francisco, March 7th, 1851.
MY DEAR SIR:—Send me, if you please, without any delay, $700, the balance of our fee for professional labors in your service, at Stockton, in December last. You were kind enough to mention the first day of February past, as the day on which you would settle. If you can't send $700, send $600; if not $600, then $500; if not that, $400, or $300, or 200, or 100, or $50, or $25, or $10, or $5.

I have a dollar to pay my board, to buy a hat, a pair of boots, or to have my ragged coat mended, and scarcely a quarter to take a drink with. Nobody will lend me, or pay me, or trust me; and it is too cold to sleep out of nights. As to paying my debts! I might as well try to drink all Stockton drunk and keep sober myself.

To speak seriously, I am hard up, and now is your time if you want to do me a service.

FREAKS OF AN INFURIATED BULL.—Between three and four o'clock Monday afternoon, a bull broke loose somewhere down town, and ran up the 6th avenue attacking and severely injuring three persons. He first tossed and gored a small boy named Baxter, whose parents reside on the corner of 24th street and 5th avenue. He next attacked a lady, between 23rd and 24th streets, on the 7th avenue, tossing her with his horns, rightfully wounding, and rendering her insensible. He then ran up to 28th street and 5th avenue, and there attacked another lady, who had a small child with her. The child was speled, but the woman was dreadfully mangled. The officers of the police, who were called, and conveyed them to their respective residences. At first no alarm was given, but as the bull continued to mangle the women, a cry of alarm was given, and a large number of the police were called. The bull was finally shot by a police officer, and the women were conveyed to the hospital.

BY TELEGRAPH.
Times Office, Hartford, June 1.
The first ballot for Senator this morning resulted in no choice. Thos. H. Seymour, the Union Democratic candidate, had 105 and Roger S. Baldwin, free soil Whig, 99. The scattering votes were for James Dixon 4, E. Peck 3, D. Kenderly 3, S. D. Hubbard 1, Wm. L. Storrs 1 and Joseph Franklin 1, all Whigs; Geo. S. Catlin had 3 and Isaac Tenney and Saml. Ingham 1 each all Democrats.

SECOND DESPATCH.
Hartford, 1 o'clock.

The second ballot, like the first, resulted in no choice. Seymour had 100, Baldwin 92 and Dixon 11. There were 21 scattering votes on this ballot—the Democrats gaining 1 and the Whigs losing 3.

A motion was made to postpone the subject indefinitely, but it was lost, 155 to 105.

A resolution was then passed, making Wednesday next, at 11 o'clock the order for balloting.

A dozen or fifteen Whigs refused to vote for an abolition or free soil candidate. They cannot be influenced to vote for Baldwin, and the Whigs now talk of another candidate. James Dixon is named, as also Judge Storrs whose opinions on free soil are not known.

The Whigs have the Senate, and the Democrats cannot elect any one. It is probable there will be no choice this year.

A most odd act.—In England an Act of Parliament was passed requiring that every cart should have the owner's name and place of residence, with the words, "A taxed cart," painted on it. A market gardener was brought before a magistrate for non-compliance with this Act, when he asserted in reply to the charge, that he had done all that the law required, as the magistrate might easily convince himself. On examining the cart, the following words were read:—a most odd cart on a taxed cart; which the man explained to mean:—Amos Todd Acton. A taxed cart.

A countryman sowing his ground two smart fellows riding that way, one of them called to him with an insolent air—"Well, honest fellow," said he, "it is your business to sow, but we rec the fruits of your labor." To which the countryman replied—"Tis very likely you may, for I am sowing hemp."

ROOTH & FOSTER,
FASHIONABLE CLOTHING AND OUTFITTING ESTABLISHMENT,
No. 27 Cornhill Street, New York.

HAVING enlarged their establishment to twice that of its original size, would call the attention of Clothiers and others, to the fact that their stock is entirely new and amounts to over 100,000 DOLLARS.

THE WHOLESALE DEPARTMENT, which occupies three entire floors of their Establishment is fitted with every style of garments adapted to the season, to which the attention of the trade is invited, to a careful examination of workmanship, quality, style of fashioning, and cost, which the proprietors fully guarantee to be equal, if not superior to that of any other establishment in the trade.

THE RETAIL DEPARTMENT, as usual, is replete with everything new and desirable in the way of Gentlemen's Wardrobe. In addition to the above they have constantly on hand a large assortment of GENTLEMEN'S FURNISHING GOODS, perhaps the largest and most complete ever before exhibited in this market. By this arrangement, combining the two branches, gentlemen can at a moment's warning procure a COMPLETE OUTFIT of such articles as cannot fail to give the most entire satisfaction.

Garments made to order, as usual, at a few hours notice. The flattering approval of the many patrons of this House, and its most unparalleled growth, afford them the strongest evidence of its worth. Gentlemen visiting the city are earnestly requested to give it a call, the proprietors feeling the assurance that every man and "Taste" will demand its patronage.
